My Testimony about Dreams Interpretation

Dreams have always been a fascinating subject for me, even before I became a believer in Jesus Christ. But after receiving Him as my Lord and Savior, my fascination with dreams grew even more. I was always curious about the meaning of dreams and how they could be interpreted. That curiosity led me to read the Book of Genesis, where Joseph interpreted Pharaoh's dreams, and the Book of Daniel, where Daniel interpreted the dreams of King Nebuchadnezzar. These stories inspired me, and I felt a strong urge within my spirit that I could also interpret dreams.

At first, I struggled to understand the meaning of dreams. I would read books and articles on dream interpretation, but I found them confusing and contradictory. However, I didn't give up. I continued to pray and seek God's guidance on this matter. I also read the Bible more, particularly the verses that talked about dreams and visions. I realized that God speaks to us in different ways, including through dreams and visions.

One night, I had a dream that was so vivid and detailed that I couldn't shake it off. I felt that this dream had a significant meaning, but I didn't know how to interpret it. I prayed and asked God for guidance, and after a few days, the interpretation came to me. I was amazed by how accurate the interpretation was, and it confirmed some things that God had been speaking to me about in my waking life.

From that moment on, I became more confident in interpreting dreams. I started to keep a dream journal, where I would write down my dreams and their interpretations. I also began to help other people interpret their dreams. I discovered that dream interpretation is not only fascinating but also helpful in discerning God's will for our lives.

As I continued to study and practice dream interpretation, I realized that there are different types of dreams. Some dreams are just a result of our subconscious mind processing our daily experiences and emotions. These dreams don't have any significant meaning, and we shouldn't worry about them. However, there are other dreams that are from God, and they have a purpose and meaning.

One of the ways to discern if a dream is from God is to ask Him to confirm it through His Word or through other means. For example, if you have a dream about a particular scripture, ask God to reveal the meaning of that scripture to you. Or if you have a dream about a person, ask God to give you an opportunity to speak to that person and confirm the message in the dream.

Another way to discern if a dream is from God is to look at the fruit it produces. If the dream brings peace, comfort, or direction, then it's likely from God. But if the dream brings fear, confusion, or anxiety, then it's not from God.

Dream interpretation is not a science, and it's not something that we should rely on solely. We should always seek God's guidance and confirmation on everything we do, including interpreting dreams. We should also be careful not to put too much emphasis on dreams and neglect the importance of God's Word and the leading of the Holy Spirit.

In conclusion, dream interpretation is a fascinating subject, and it's something that we can all learn and practice. However, we should always seek God's guidance and confirmation on everything we do, including interpreting dreams. We should also be careful not to put too much emphasis on dreams and neglect the importance of God's Word and the leading of the Holy Spirit.
